INTRODUCING THE GREELEY STAMPEDE MASCOT “BUCKY”

Greeley, CO.— The Greeley Stampede had most unusual Tuesday afternoon, delivering a Longhorn Bull! “Bucky,” the newest addition to the Greeley Stampede Family was born at 2:00 p.m. at the Monfort Family Birth Center at North Colorado Medical Center. “Bucky’s” birth weight (as read on his birth certificate) was a whopping 924 lbs, 5 ounces. And was measured at 89 inches! “The Stampede is very proud of its newest family member,” said Kyle Holman, Director of the Marketing for the Greeley Stampede. “Although a little wild, Bucky will be a great addition to the Greeley Stampede.”

“Bucky” will be involved in virtually every aspect of the Greeley Stampede, but will be centered on entertaining and reaching out to kids at the annual western festival. Look for “Bucky” to make a scene everywhere he goes, and be a great addition to the exciting events at the 2003 Greeley Stampede, June 26 – July 6.
